Cagers Topple Grayslake 67 - 44 Friday Eve.

To Play In Regional Tournamant at Elgin Wed.
March 4

As expected, Antioch's Sequoits beat Grayslake here Friday evening with little trouble. The final score was 67-44 with the locals in the lead all through the game, taking a ten point lead in the first quarter. The locals maintained the lead throughout the second quarter which ended 29-19. In the third stanza the Sequoits scored 18 points to Grayslake's 16, making the third quarter score 47-35.

In the final quarter the Antioch second team took the floor and went on a scoring spree, scoring 20 to Grayslake's 9 to build the final total of 67-44.

Mike Haviland was especially deadly in the free throw circle, hitting the hoop for 11 straight tries. In the game he made 12 attempts, with only one miss. In a subsequent game with Palatine Saturday, in which our JV's met the Palatine team, he dropped in three more to make a total of 14 throws in competition without a miss.

To Meet Grant Friday
Coach Scott said today that unless something unexpected happens the locals should triumph over Grant's Bulldogs next Friday to complete the season undefeated in the conference.

More emphasis, he said, is being put on the Regional tourney which will take place in Elgin next week.

Antioch will journey to Elgin Wednesday, March 4, to play in the Elgin Regional at 8:30 p. m. Their opponents will be either Hebron or St. Edward's of Elgin. Crystal Lake will play McHenry at 8:45 the same evening. However, each game will be considered as a separate session. The gymnasium will be cleared after each game in order to make room for the reserved seats for the next game. All seats will be reserved.

Antioch will be entitled to 402 tickets for their game with the District winner at 8:30, March 4. In the event of a win in the first round the local team will be allotted 402 tickets for their game Thursday, March 5, at 8:30.

There will be a few tickets available to Antioch fans when the home team is not participating.

All tickets will be sold at the high school office during the day from 8:00 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Ducats for the March 4 game will go on sale Friday and Saturday. The office will be open on Saturday from 2 to 5 p. m.

March 5 and 6 tickets will be on sale all day Thursday and Friday.

Freshmen Lose to Warren
After winning three games in a row the Antioch freshmen were beaten by the Warren freshmen 39-35. Antioch scored 17 points in the final quarter to put a scare into Warren but poor ball handling and passing in the first three quarters was too much to make up. Walsh and Bown had 11 and 9 points respectively for the losers.

Sunday Mail Dispatch Discontinued at P. O.

Sunday dispatch of mail at Antioch postoffice will be discontinued, according to Postmaster Roy I. Kufalk, who made the announcement today. Reason for discontinuance the Sunday service is curtailment of certain trains on the Soo Line railway which has made the Sunday service possible in the past.

According to Kufalk, the Sunday evening train which formerly carried mail from Chicago to Stevens Point and beyond no longer will carry mail, and also will go only to Stevens Point, Wis., and return the next day, rather than to continue north.

Sunday dispatch of mail was instituted more than ten years ago, and has been a great help to residence, already hampered by poor rail transportation of mail. South-bound mail will be sent out from the local postoffice on Saturday night and again on Monday morning.

Home Is 1st Defense Against Spread Of Contagious Disease

The home is the first line of defense in the control of communicable diseases among school children, says Pauline Brimball, health specialist, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Sick children who go to school seriously endanger community health and jeopardize their own well-being besides. A child who has a headache, an upset stomach, a sore throat or the sniffles should be put to bed and isolated from the rest of the family if possible. Such precautionary measures will frequently forestall further serious complications. Moreover, a child who doesn't feel well is in no condition to do his school work.

An alert teacher is the major-general of the second line of defense. She is in a position to tell when children show signs of a cold or other symptoms of illness and to send them home.

The spread of communicable diseases cannot be controlled unless both lines of defense function efficiently.

Residents of the lake region and Antioch are quite numerous in Florida at this time of year, according to the many postcards and letters received each week at the Antioch News office.

"Dear Mama Mia"

Every television addict is familiar with the weekly show "Life With Luigi" starring J. Carroll Nash. In one episode Luigi, the Italian immigrant lad who now runs an antique shop in his adopted country, reached the conclusion that he should buy "a little piece of America" in the form of a share of common stock. His description of the purchase in a mythical letter to his mother is a gem of homely economics, telling in a few simple words about all there is to tell of the principle of American corporate enterprise.

"Dear Mama Mia," says Luigi, "I'm got twenty dollars free and clear, tax free. And I'm going to use this money to buy a little piece of America. I'm going to invest in the stock market. In case you don't know what means the stock market . . . I'll explain: It's like you and everybody in the village own the same chicken. You can't eat it—you just own it.

"Now if the chicken lays an egg, that's a small dividend. If it lays six eggs, that's a big dividend. If it don't lay any eggs at all, you better take a good look at the chicken . . . maybe it's a rooster."

There are millions of "Luigis" in this country. They count on the chicken continuing to lay eggs. If it doesn't—well, pretty soon there is no chicken. And that is the way it is with industries that keep this country going. They either earn some dividends for Luigi and his thrifty brethren who have invested hard earned cash in them or pretty soon there will be no production—and no sources of tax revenue.

This is why the soap boxers who decry profits and the profit motive, whether they realize it or not, are calling for an end to the entire American system of enterprise and representative government.

The Consumer Is Penalized

Instead of benefiting the consumer, OPS regulations have actually penalized him by muddling distribution and prices. That unequivocal statement was made before the 58th annual convention of the American National Cattlemen's Association by the president of an organization which represents the country's principal meat packers.

He pointed out that regulations and threats of rollbacks seriously disrupted the cattle market and reduced meat supplies at a time when they should have been increasing, and added, "As a result of this meat prices were higher than otherwise would have been true. Since meat prices actually were below ceilings during much of the time the cost of meat to consumers unquestionably was higher than if there had been no controls." He then cited facts and figures to show that because of OPS policies "the entire price differential structure has been disrupted and this has hurt everybody concerned—consumers, meat packers and producers."

Going beyond the matter of price, by now it should be apparent to all that when artificial, unnecessary and costly burdens are placed on any kind of enterprise, whether it be manufacturing machinery or raising, processing and marketing livestock, the interest of the consumer will be harmed as well. In the long run the consumer, and the consumer alone, must pay all the costs that are involved in running business. And it is the consumer who has the greatest stake in maintaining maximum production of goods and services of all kinds, and in encouraging business to expand and improve.

The disruptions caused by OPS, like those caused in other days by OPA, show the futility and the danger of political domination of our economic order.

Is Economy for Others Only?

"Everybody wants government spending reduced—except when it cuts into his own pet project." That is the theme of an article in Nation's Business, written by George Cline Smith, aptly entitled "Economy Is for Others."

Mr. Smith cites case after case where this has been true. Farmers, business men, labor groups, veterans, state and local government officials and organizations—all are for strict economy as a general principle. But, more often than not, when some proposed reduction in federal spending will cut into what they consider their share of the pie, they howl to high heaven. We saw a sad example of this when the Hoover Commission's reports on government reorganization was made public. As Mr. Smith observes, "Everybody was for the Hoover recommendations in general. But on any specific point, powerful opposition developed." As a result, many of the most needed and most logical reforms recommended by the commission are still hanging fire.

Here is one big reason why today's federal tax bill averages $1,389 for each and every American family—and why that family's share of the national debt is $5,650. And it also is a reason why, believe it or not, the Treasury in one week of 1952 took in more money in taxes than in all of 1940!

The point is simple. The drive for economy in government must begin at the grass-roots. It must begin with an overwhelming public demand for economy regardless of whose ox is gored—and regardless of selfish interests and special privilege. Then we will get economy—for Washington always mirrors the mood and temper of the people.

Your Income Tax

By Ernest J. Sauber
Director of Internal Revenue
First District of Illinois

Computing Depreciation

Depreciation is a subject of great concern for the Federal income tax filer as well as a topic of much discussion for accounting purposes. Our aim is not to become involved in the numerous points of view or variety of methods used in estimating depreciation, but to seek the practical method which will provide a reasonable allowance of a deduction in order to file a proper return.

Deduction Provided by Law

Income-producing assets used in a business have a certain useful life. Their gradual wearing out and exhaustion is an expense of the business. As a compensation for this expense as well as to prevent the impairment of capital, the law allows a deduction providing for the spreading of the depreciation over the useful life of the assets.

Depreciation Not Decline in Value

A taxpayer is allowed by law to deduct from gross income a reasonable allowance for the wear and tear of income-producing assets. Of course, this is known as a deduction for depreciation.

One must not mistake depreciation with a mere decline in value of the asset. There must be physical exhaustion of useful life due to time and use.

Repairs and Improvement

Repairs and improvements have a different relationship to the useful life of the asset. Repairs technically do not alter the useful life of the asset, but its life expectancy depends on the extent of repairs made and properly maintained.

Improvements or repairs in the nature of replacements, which prolong the useful life of the asset are to be treated as capital expenditures and not conducted as expense items.

The allowance for depreciation is limited to assets or property used in the taxpayer's trade or business or properly held for production of income. This does not preclude the owner of real property from taking the deduction even though the operation of such property is not his principal trade or business.

Ownership Not Required

Ownership of property need not be a prerequisite for claiming depreciation. A person in possession and using the property to produce taxable income is entitled to depreciation deduction even though legal title is retained by the seller as security for payment of purchase price.

Method Most Used

The "straight line" method is most widely used to compute depreciation allowance. The rate of depreciation is assumed to be uniform during the useful life of the property. It is computed by dividing the cost or other basis of the property, less its value when worn out, over the estimated number of years of its useful life.

Determining the Useful Life

The matter of determining useful life often confounds taxpayers. Often guesses are made, which have no foundation in fact, with the result that taxpayers have to revise their depreciation schedule affecting the final tax liability. The useful life of property or income-producing asset may be based upon one's own experience and knowl-

Constitution Safe in New Home

This typical family group is among thousands of people who daily visit the new home of the Declaration of Independence, Constitution, and Bill of Rights in Washington's National Archives Building. Few are aware that the officer on duty is only a symbol of the extraordinary steps taken to guard the nation's most treasured documents. Nightly, the precious papers are lowered by a unique elevator into the world's largest safe, hidden 20 feet below the recently dedicated shrine. The 50-ton safe was built by the Mosler Safe Company, which also built the vaults which protect the nation's gold at Ft. Knox. The giant safe is bomb, fire, burglar, and water-resistant.

edge. This method may be applied with standardized assets.

Technical Knowledge

When there is no reliable past experience, the asset may be inspected by technical experts who could give a fair estimate of the life of the asset.

Bulletin F

Comprehensive tables of "average useful lives" of various kinds of buildings, machines, and equipment in many industries and businesses have been published in an official booklet called Bulletin F which you can buy for 25 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. The bases of the depreciation allowance are explained in Section 114 of the Internal Revenue Code.

Personal and Business Use

When property is used partly for business and partly for personal use, the depreciation is allocated to the part used for business. In case property is occupied rent-free by relatives of a taxpayer and the property is not being used in a trade or business and not producing income, the depreciation is not deductible. When residential property is converted to business purposes, the basis for depreciation is the fair market value of the property on the date of conversion or the cost or other basis, whichever is lower.

Records Required

The regulations require that deduction for depreciation be recorded on the taxpayer's book. The book should show the basis of the depreciable property and any adjustment thereto.

In general, the burden of proof is on the taxpayer to establish his rights to a depreciation deduction. They must be able to furnish full information regarding cost or other basis of the assets on which depreciation is claimed, the condition, the age, and the remaining useful life.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Human nature being what it is, the familiar route over which you drive your car five or six days a week can become as dangerous as a hobbled run unless you make yourself be alert at all times.

A recent traffic safety article told about the driver who "made a train disappear." He had become so accustomed to crossing a railroad track at a certain location, he had done it so many times that he forgot it was there—until the time a train arrived just as he did. His familiarity with the route simply "made the train disappear."

Don't let yourself become virtually hypnotized by a familiar route. There is always danger present when you are driving a car. New and totally unexpected situations can occur at any time and with practically no warning.

Your Income Tax:.....

Director of Internal Revenue E. J. Stauber, has some advice for small businessmen who are currently experiencing difficulty in computing their Federal income tax because they have not kept adequate permanent records.

The task of preparing tax returns, Director Stauber says, is especially burdensome for those businessmen who do not keep adequate records, and his office receives many inquiries each year from small businessmen, professional men and farmers, asking what kind of records should be maintained by them.

Internal Revenue regulations do not prescribe in detail the type of records to be kept, the director points out. What is important, he says, is that a systematic record be maintained—one that is sufficient to establish the amount of gross income and the deductions, credits, and other matters required to be shown in any return.

To know his business income, the taxpayer must know what sales or receipts of records he has had, and what costs and expenses he has incurred. Any system of records or books, then, that contains information about all receipts and expenses is considered adequate, Director Stauber says.

Many small merchants and professional men have found a simple method of record keeping. They use a column-lined sheet of paper and head the columns with the classification of expenses used in tax Schedule C, "Profit or Loss from Business or Profession," a form they are required to file annually.

Many farmers prepare a similar set of records by using the classifications shown on Form 1040F, "Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses," which they are required to file.

A good practice is to summarize these sheets each month, so that at the end of the taxable year, the taxpayer has only to add the 12 monthly totals and enter the resulting totals on his tax return.

The advantage of this system is that such a record, together with the supporting vouchers, cancelled checks, etc., is easily checked if an audit of the return is made.

E. J. Stauber, Director.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

That the purpose of Jesus' life work was to reveal God to man and to acquaint man with his sacred obligations as a son of God, will be explained in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 1. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be CHRIST JESUS.

The Golden Text is from John (3:17) "God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved."

Bible selections (King James Version) in the Lesson-Sermon include:

"For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need" (Heb. 4:15, 16).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. His mission was both individual and collective. He did life's work aright not only in justice to himself, but in mercy to mortals,—to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them nor to relieve them of a single responsibility. . . . Like our Master, we must depart from material sense into the spiritual sense of being" (pp. 18, 41).

THE GREATEST
BUICK
IN 50 GREAT YEARS

THE getaway of any 1953 Buick—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—is, in one word, dazzling.

Two things account for this. First: increased horsepower and compression ratios. Second: Buick's new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo Drive.*

In every SUPER and ROADMASTER for 1953 is a new kind of V8 Engine—the first Fireball V8—and the world's most advanced V8, first in any passenger car to reach 8.5 to 1 compression. In every SPECIAL is a newly designed F-263 Fireball 8 Engine with the highest horsepower and compression ever offered in this Series.

To get fullest benefit from these brilliant engines, Buick engineers designed a new Dynaflo with two turbines instead of one.

Result: flash-fast getaway—less sound—and improved efficiency—added to the infinite smoothness of this power transfer. Getaway that brings the 1953 Buick SPECIAL up to 30 mph in fewer seconds than the mighty 1952 ROADMASTER.

But these Golden Anniversary Buicks put you way ahead in more than time and distance.

You're way out front in style, in comfort, in ride, in handling ease—and, very definitely, in value.

We'd like to prove that to you—while you're sampling any one of the greatest Buicks in fifty great years. Why not drop in this week?

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

A rapid survey reveals nation's independent businessmen applaud the administration's rapid first step scrapping controls.

But no one takes the stand that with the end of controls, it is all over but the shouting.

The White House announces return to "free enterprise" and Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson, announces return to law of supply and demand on farm prices.

But the big question is this: What is the current interpretation in administration circles of those terms?

Free enterprise is often destroyed by methods other than government edict.

Sometimes freedom of enterprise is held to be unrestricted license to build monopoly control of business.

Under Communism or Nazism monopoly business is a definite government policy. In other nations, such as France and Britain, when not in the clutch of a Socialist regime, official governmental policy has been neither pro or anti-monopoly. The result has been that unchecked monopoly has kept Europe in one economic crisis after another, alleviated only by war, or gifts of U. S. billions.

The U. S. has long standing anti-trust laws prohibiting the formation of monopolies. But because of lax enforcement of anti-trust laws, the U. S. feels on the brink of complete monopoly control by default.

This trend has been fought vigorously by legislators of both parties, especially members of the Senate and House Small Business Committees.

U. S. Monopoly made it's greatest strides during World War II. While fighting a two front war, safeguards were breached.

Peace did not change the trend.

Then Korea brought the army of monopoly lobbyists swarming back to Washington. With World War II experience, they knew how to better rig controls to aid monopoly business. The result: when shortage of merchandise occurred, the independent retailer was hit first. Independent manufacturers secured less than 25% of the new defense contracts.

Here's the $64 question: can the present administration really re-establish freedom of enterprise, or only strengthen the freedom of license.

Some write that General Motors not only gets the major share of government contracts, but is also a part of the DuPont empire currently facing an anti-trust suit in Federal Court. They wonder about appointments of General Motors executives to top governmental posts.

But majority of businessmen have attitude of watchful waiting, holding no one should be hanged before the trial.

And probably never before in American history has government been under such close observation by organized independent business as now.

There is a watching of straws in the wind. An example:

With all major oil companies boosting prices together many write the time has come to decide on the legality of oil operations under anti-trust laws.

C. W. Harder

spent the past week at the Hines Veterans hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Madsen and their sons, Wilbur, Bob and Charles, Jr., with their wives, were in Kenosha to attend the wedding of Mrs. Madsen's nephew on Saturday evening, Feb. 14.

Ed Kidera, registered professional engineer and also professional land surveyor, who lives on Grand avenue announces his candidacy for member of the Grayslake

High school board, election which is coming up in April, and would appreciate your support.

The pinocchio club was entertained on Tuesday this week by Mrs. Earl Hucker at her home and games of pinocchio followed the pot luck dinner at 12:30.

Miss Kathleen Gindich, teacher at the Niles High school called at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gindich last week-end.

Mrs. James Gurran and daughter, Molly, of Indianapolis, who have just returned from a visit with her sister in California, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Williamson, a short time last week. Her mother accompanied her as far as Chicago. Her sister in California had been quite ill and Mrs. Gurran's daughter, Molly, became ill and had an appendectomy while in California.
